

MITM

The Man-In-The-Middle - MITM - is a method where a service is placed between client and server to allow recording of the traffic between them.

MITM can also be used as a computer security attack where the attacker secretly relays traffic between sender and receiver in order to circumvent mutual authentication.

This allows the attacker to access, manipulate and modify the traffic without sender and receiver noticing.

From:

<http://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/> - Inteno Glossary

Permanent link:

<http://docs.intenogroup.com/glossary/m/mitm>

Last update: 2018/08/10 18:16

